DESCRIPTION

A two-story, rectangular, gable-roofed, clapboard Classical Revival house with one-story wings on either side. The central portion is symmetrical and features a Classical portico with paired, monumental Ionic columns set on pedestals and supporting a triangular pediment above. Directly in back of the portico is a one-story, full-width porch with Tuscan columns and a simple stick balustrade at the 2nd-floor balcony above. Main entry has side lights and transom, balcony door above has only a transom. Windows are 8/1. One-story wings were added after 1931, set back from the front facade, and are similarly detailed to the main portion. A secondary entrance in the east wing has a small projecting porch with matching Tuscan column and stick balustrade at roof line.

SIGNIFICANCE

Good example of the upper-class housing built in the Classical Revival style. Located close to downtown, this neighborhood was fashionable after the turn of the century and now supports commercial uses. As the building's additions are sympathetic in nature, it remains a significant resource to the city.
